

Feedback challenge giver interview (live session 17.11.2020):

What the challenge givers liked:

- Our idea of a version for children (less text, less function) which would lead the children to the adult version.
- Liked the moderating function
- Liked the data privacy functionality
- Liked the creation of groups functionality
- Liked the voting functionality
- Liked the message reporting functionality
- Liked the Profil page (look and feel -> groups and friends discussions in on place)
- Liked the Chat functionality.
- Liked the direct writing to people.
- Liked the colors of our prototype.
- Liked the different settings (on our Setting page).

What the challenge givers didn't like:

- don't believe the really young youngsters can handle it (7 year olds might be troubled with it.)
- Afraid that there might be too many functions for the children or teenagers after all. And that the children won't understand everything you see in our prototype.
 - In our opinion, is there perhaps an alternative for them?

Ideas to improve the prototype:

- Different moderators for different works?
- Master Administrator for the whole app? (Give rights to other administrators/moderators?)
- Version for disadvantaged children that can't read.
- When developing an app for kids --> Thinking about less functions, more pictures and less text?
- One app for children, one for teenagers and one for adults?
